

Because of the im-<sup>May 1996</sup>pending demise of California in the period ahead this fictional account by Curt Gentry is still a good bit of thought provoking prose... which one might find in a flea market, garage sale, or at a used book store.

The non-fiction, historical account for 1990's which Curt Gentry has written is about J. Edgar Hoover, The Man which is a better buy or choice at public library and adds significantly to the history of the 1960's and of J. Edgar Hoover's life and times.

LAS VEGAS TOWER. THIS IS UNITED 312. DO YOU READ ME? WE'RE CRUISING ABOVE SAN BERNARDINO, CALIFORNIA. ■ SOMETHING STRANGE IS HAPPENING DOWN THERE, ALONG THE EARTH SPLIT. ■ WE CAN BARELY SEE IT IN THE TWILIGHT, BUT IT LOOKS LIKE THE EARTH IS OPENING ALL ALONG THE CRACK ■ THERE'S TREMENDOUS TURBULENCE—IT LOOKS LIKE ...

THE LAST DAYS OF THE LATE, GREAT STATE OF CALIFORNIA

A startling "report on the U.S. minus the Golden State—and its staggering effects on the American way of life.

"What an ingenious literary device for telling the story of today's California! Rather than piling statistic upon statistic, Gentry shows what California is by showing what America would not be without it."

— Los Angeles Times

"A fond and sometimes needling look at things as they are ... carried off in bravura style with splendid imagination"

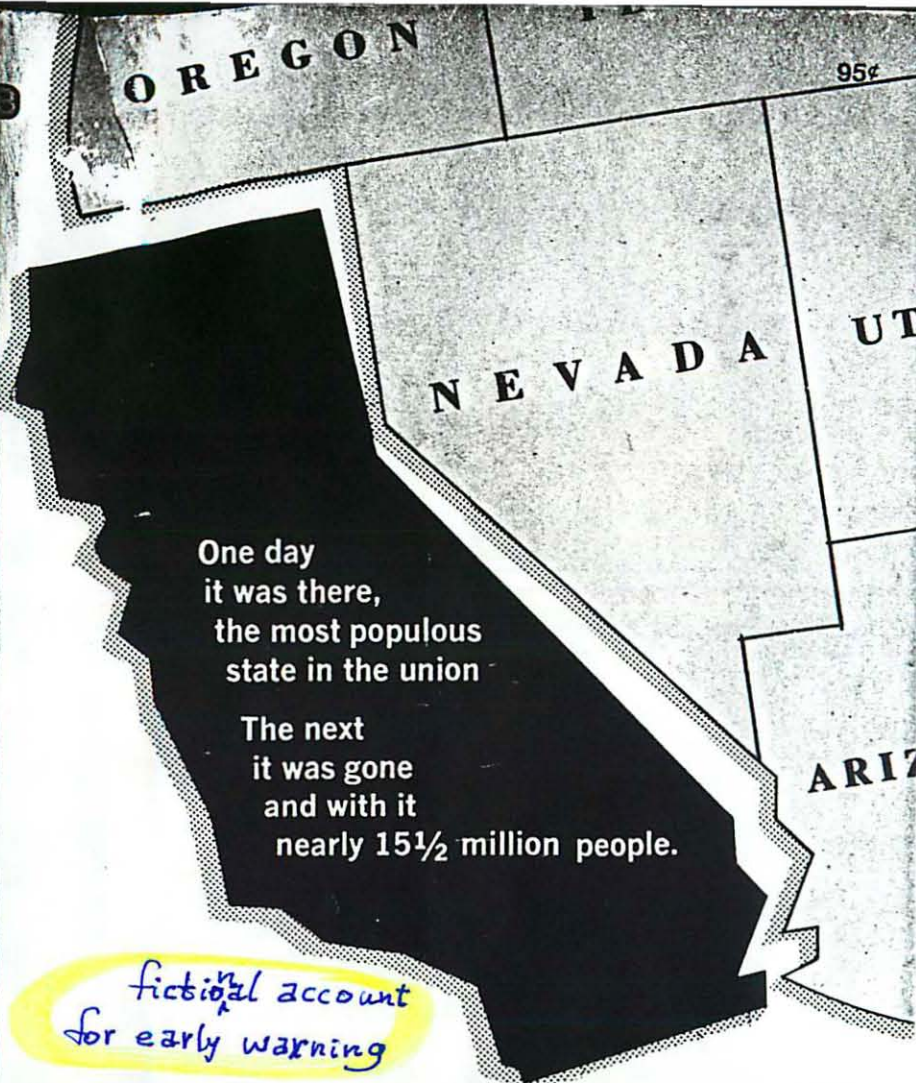

—Literary Guild Magazine
