

Masters of Deception and the Tower of Babylon

by

Frederic E. Church

Now the serpent was more subtil than any beast of the field which the Lord God had made (Gen 3:1).

And it came to pass, when men began to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them,

That the sons of God saw the daughters of men that they were fair; and they took the wives of all which they chose.

And the Lord said, My spirit shall not always strive with man, for that he also is flesh: yet his days shall be an hundred and twenty years.

There were giants in the earth in those days; and also after that, when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men, and they bare children to them, the same became mighty men which were of old, men of renown (Gen. 6:1-4).

And the angels which kept their first estate, but left their own habitation, he hath reserved in everlasting chains under darkness unto the judgement of the great day.

Even as Sodom and Gomorrha and the cities about them in like manner, giving themselves over to fornication, and going after strange flesh, are set forth for an example, suffering the vengeance of eternal fire (Jude 6-7).

And the whole earth was of one language, and of one speech.

And it came to pass, as they journeyed from the east, that they found a plain in the land of Shinar; and they dwelt there.

And they said one to another, Go to, let us make brick, and burn them throughly. And they had brick for stone, and slime had they for mortar.

And they said, Go to, let us build us a city and a tower whose top may reach unto heaven; and let us make us a name, lest we be scattered abroad upon the face of the whole world.

And the Lord came down to see the city and the tower, which the children of men builded.

And the LORD said, Behold, the people is one, and they have all one language; and this they begin to do: and now nothing will be restrained from them, which they have imagined to do.

Go to, let us go down, and there confound their language that they may not understand one another's speech.

So the LORD scattered them abroad from thence upon the face of all the earth: and they left off to build the city (Gen. 11:1-8).

...and there is no new thing under the sun (Ecc. 1:9).

But as the days of Noe were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be (Mathew 24:37).

And then shall that Wicked be revealed, whom the Lord shall consume with the spirit of his mouth and shall destroy with the brightness of his coming:

Even him, whose coming is after the working of Satan with all power and signs and lying wonders.

And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish; because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved.

And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie (II. Thess. 2:8-11).

And I saw when the Lamb opened one of the seals, and I heard, as it were the noise of thunder, one of the four beasts saying, Come and see.

And I saw, and behold a white horse: and he that sat on him had a bow; and a crown was given unto him: and he went forth conquering, and to conquer...

And there went out another horse that was red: and power was given to him that sat thereon to take peace from the earth, and that they should kill one another: and there was given unto him a great sword...

And when he had opened the third seal, I heard the third beast say, Come and see. And I beheld, and lo a black horse; and he that sat on him had a pair of balances in his hand.

And I looked, and behold a pale horse: and his name that sat on him was Death, and Hell followed with him. And power was given unto them over the fourth part of the earth, to kill with sword, and with hunger, and with death, and with the beasts of the earth (Rev 6:1-8).

...and power was given him over all kindreds and tongues and nations.

And all that dwell upon the earth shall worship him, whose names are not written in the book of life of the Lamb slain from the foundations of the world.

And he had power to give life into the image of the beast, that the image of the beast should both speak, and cause that as many as would not worship the image of the beast should be killed.

And he causeth all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads:

And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name.

Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is Six hundred threescore and six (Rev. 13).

And there came one of the seven angels which had the seven vials, and talked with me, saying unto me, Come hither; I will shew unto thee the judgement of the great whore that sitteth upon many waters.

With whom the kings of the earth have committed fornication, and the inhabitants of the earth have been made drunk with the wine of her fornication.

So he carried me away in the spirit into the wilderness: and I saw a woman sit upon a scarlet coloured beast, full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns.

And the woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet colour, and decked with gold and precious stones and pearls, having a golden cup in her hand full of abominations and filthiness of her fornication:

And upon her forehead was a name written, MYSTERY, BABYLON THE GREAT, THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS AND ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH (Rev. 17:1-5).

...we henceforth be no more children tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men, and cunning craftiness, whereby they lie in wait to deceive (Eph. 4:14).

Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ (Col. 2:8).

Now the Spirit speaketh expressly, that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils; Speaking lies in hypocrisy; having their conscience seared with a hot iron (I Tim. 4:1-2).

This know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come.

For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, Without natural affection, trucebreakers, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good, Traitors, heady, hihminded, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God...

Ever learning, and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth.

...so do these also resist the truth: men of corrupt minds, reprobate concerning the faith...

But evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving, and being deceived (II Tim. 3:1-13).

For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places (Eph. 6:12).

Babylon and the Tower of Babel

"Grandpa! Grandpa! I caught another one!" yelled Eber. "You are a good fisherman, son. Why don't we go home now? We have plenty of fish for the table. Besides, we must get ready for the celebration of Ishtar, the queen of heaven and our goddess of fertility. If we are late your mother is going to be mad at both of us. She has been busy coloring eggs and baking small cakes while we are out here having fun ripping lips. We need to help your father go get the wood so that he can build the crosses for the sacrifices." "Aw, do we have to go now?" asked Eber. "No arguments," I replied. Slowly I got up. It was a good day. The river was calm and we caught plenty of fish. Eber and I collected our fish and fishing rods and proceeded to go home. "Grandpa," asked Eber, "what is Ishtar about?" "And what about Sun-Day on December 25?" "And what about..." "Hold on now!" I exclaimed. "I can only answer one question at a time." We started to walk home. "Many years ago I knew a great man, Nimrod and his wife Semiramis. One day, a sad thing happened. Nimrod was killed while hunting wild boar. He was a leader, a god to us, and we mourned his death. However, a miracle occurred. Semiramis, his wife, became pregnant. She told us that she had been impregnated by Nimrod through the rays of the sun. She had a son whose name was Tammuz. He was born on December 25. Tammuz was worshipped as the Sun-god as a result. And, of course, Semiramis changed her name to Ishtar. As a result we celebrate Nimrod's death, burial, and resurrection. Because Tammuz's name began with a T, we use the crosses for sacrifices in honor of him. Because the Sun-god gives life, it is required to sacrifice human life to appease him." "What about the evergreen tree we put up on December 25?" asked Eber. "That is a good question, son. When Nimrod died, Semiramis planted an evergreen tree over his grave to symbolize eternal life," I answered. "Wow!" exclaimed Eber. "And you knew Nimrod?" asked Eber. "Well, sort of," I answered. "Actually I was involved with him during our great space program in those days. Those were wonderful times until the invasion from outer space." "What happened?" asked Eber. "You are full of questions today, aren't you?" I replied. "I just want to know. What happened in those days?" I thought for a long time. Those were exciting times, but they ended with sadness and confusion. We were now home. Eber had forgotten his questions. He was proud of his fish and he went looking for his mother. I proceeded to clean the fish.

Eber's questions haunted me. It had been a long time ago, and I had become very old. I had seen a great civilization, highly advanced, with a great future come to a sudden end. Actually we had been deceived, not only by Nimrod, but by the space brothers, or gods as some thought. We had become servants, slaves, breeders of a new order of beings called Rephaim, giants. We were to build a New World Order. We were all one. Together, nothing could stop us. You see, the great flood of Noah still was etched in our memories. We must never be destroyed in the future, as had occurred in the past. According to the space brothers, the flood was a result of a cosmic war in the heavens. They survived, and wanted us to survive any future catastrophe as well. They came back to earth to give us knowledge, and to help us advance as a great people. They took some of our women to breed a new race of beings, just as they had done before the flood. They gave us much knowledge. Of course, some of our knowledge came from Noah, as he thought fit to teach his sons and grandsons some of the technologies from the previous civilization that was destroyed by the flood. The Atlanteans, as they were called, were highly advanced. So advanced, that they had gone into space and even had colonized Mars. However, something had gone wrong. A galactic war between the gods resulted in the destruction of this great civilization.

I was one of the many scientists from all over the known world recruited to help build the Tower of Babilon. Babilon had become a great city as a result. It was an exciting time. We were here to build an enormous launch facility. We were to reach into the heavens again. Bel, the father of Nimrod and founder of Babilon was the one who had contacted the space brothers. With their help, with Nimrod as leader, and with the Rephaims guiding us, we almost succeeded in building this New World Order. The tower had been built. The rocket was in place. Nothing was going to stop us now. The launch was set for the next day. Just as the final preparations were being made, an alarm was sounded. An invasion from outer space was coming, the space brothers had warned us. They hurried into their flying machines to prepare for combat. Fear spread across the city as we witnessed the developing scenario. In the sky appeared other flying machines. A battle broke out. Our space brothers were defeated, and they fled into the depths of space. The Rephaims fled from the city into the surrounding wilderness. The victors came down to get a closer look at our project. Suddenly, a ray shot out of one of the space ships and destroyed the tower. More fear! What was happening? Then came a shrill noise, a type of electromagnetic hum. The ground shook. The ground began to split. There were enormous earthquakes. We ran for cover. We shouted to each other in confusion and in fear. What? I didn't understand anyone! Everyone was speaking in languages unfamiliar to me. The land began to separate into many pieces. The sea boiled between the lands. The earth reeled. All of us ran. We looked at each other in amazement. Some of us could understand each other. Others we couldn't understand. Through sign language we communicated, but it was fruitless. We were forced to leave, each group of people going their own way.

Years had passed. The knowledge we had began to fade quickly from our memories. All we could think about was survival. We wandered for several years and finally settled down to build a new community, a new nation. The others had done the same. Eventually, because we didn't understand each other, we occasionally warred with each other. Many of us were bitter. Someday, we swore, we would build a New World Order. Someday, the underworld; Artemis, the heavenly huntress; and Heracles, father of Telephus, the legendary founder of Pergamon, are included as well. The struggle is between the forces of darkness—the giants—and the spirits of light.

In the four panels reproduced in Figure 73, Zeus is seen, appropriately, in combat with no less than three titans at once. His powerful figure, wrapped in a swirling mantle, is rearing back to smite the giants with his spear and thunderbolts. While most of Zeus's right arm is missing, his hand is seen in the upper left corner of the panel. The titan in the lower left has already been overcome by a thunderbolt, which is shown as a pointed spear with a handle of acanthus leaves. The second giant is on the other side, his body tense with terror before the blow falls. In the slab to the right, Porphyryon, king he shields himself with a lion skin from both Zeus's eagle above and the thunderbolts that the mighty god is about to hurl.

Next comes the fine group depicting the part played by Athena, protectress of the city (Fig. 74). Her figure is shown in the second slab. Bearing a shield on her left arm, she grasps a winged giant by the hair with her right and forces him to earth, where her sacred serpent can inflict the mortal wound. A moment of pathos is provided by the giant's mother, the earth goddess Gaea, who is seen as a torso rising from the ground. Though she is on the side of the gods, the earth mother implores Athena with her eyes to spare the life of her rebellious son. Gaea's attributes are seen in the horn of plenty she carries in her left hand, a cornucopia filled with the rich fruits of the earth—apples, pomegranates, and grapes with

Evidences For Pre-history Technology

We really know very little about man's past. Man's past is based on unproven theories such as the evolutionary philosophy. There are absolutely no facts supporting the theory of evolution. Evolution is based on faith, not facts. Richard E. Leakey, a well-known anthropologist stated in his book Origins:

If we are honest we have to face the fact that we shall never truly know. We can guess, and the broad research approach encompassing study of the ancient and the modern is beginning to give those guesses some substance. But even if our guesses were absolutely right, there is no one to say, yes you have the correct answer! Inescapably, it is a matter of faith (84).

Many scientists have written books showing the sheer lack of evidence for the theory of evolution. They have shown the many evidences supporting creation and the world wide flood(s) as was recorded in the book of Genesis. However, by law, these evidences are not allowed to be presented in high schools, and they are usually ignored by the "higher" institutions of "education."

The evidence for advanced cultures existing before historical times is ignored. "Archeology has been defined as the science concerned with unearthing the rubbish of the past and reburying it under a new rubbish of theory" (Gaddis 7).

In the book Chariots of the Gods? Fantasy or Fraud? published by the Bible Science Association of Canada, the following statement was made:

The early post-deluge peoples were not savages. They retained much of the ante-diluvial world's science and skill, as suggested by the remarkable scientific accuracy of the Bible. This knowledge was slowly lost down through the years until regained during the last 300 to 400 years (qtd in Lewis 86).

It must be understood that there have been many catastrophies in the past as the controversial scientist Immanuel Velikovsky has proven in his controversial books. The Bible recorded two destructive world wide floods (Genesis 1:1-9 and Genesis 7 thru 9). The result was that many artifacts have been buried under many feet of water, mud, and lava. Cryus H. Gordan wrote in his book Before Columbus: Links Between the Old World and Ancient America:

Mesopotamia cherished a tradition that at the dawn of civilization, long before any period of history known to us, science stood at a level from which historic man has fallen. Oannes brought from the sea knowledge and technology above anything achieved (or, for that matter, achievable) by Sumer, Babylonia, Assyria or classical Greek antiquity (qtd. in Gaddis 19).

Gordon gives evidence that there was a civilization that preceeded what we consider classical civilizations, and that the science and technology of those civilizations were inherited from earlier civilizations of which we know nothing about.

There is just no evidence for the beginnings of the Egyptian civilization and Mesopotamia civilization. They seem to have appeared without any previous transitional stages. Evidences of their culture appear to be shared world wide, especially in South and Central America.

When we study recent history, we usually can trace its beginnings from infancy. However, with the Egyptians we know only their maturity and their decline. Their beginnings are very vague and are only based on theories. Professor Howard Carter, head of the famous expedition which found the tomb of Tut-ankh-Amon said, "We do not know Egypt: we only deceive ourselves into thinking we do" (Kolosimo 234).

There is very strong evidence that the Greeks, the Mayans and many other cultures inherited their knowledge from the same source. For example, today the constellation Scorpius has the same name as the Mayans. Other names of the constellation were shared with ancient Mexico, Greece, Babylon, Egypt and China. Concerning the constellation names, Giorgio de Santillana wrote in his book The Origins of Scientific Thought:

They were repeated without question substantially the same from Mexico to Africa and Polynesia--and have remained with us to this day (qtd in Gaddis 26).

Obviously, there must have been a common source.

The ancient civilizations which flourished on all the continents undeniably have traits in common, traits which speak to us unequivocally of a single matrix, of very remote links, still living even if unknown to the bearers of those cultures, which were without doubt the heirs of other cultures still greater and more remote (Kolosimo 41).

The early pre-flood man and the first generations of post-flood man lived a long time. This allowed them to pass on discovered science and technology to the next generation. The knowledge of the antediluvians was recorded and passed onto the post-flood man by way of Noah and his family. Unfortunately, many early records of early man have not survived. Parchment and paper decays as time passes. Eventually, even our own books will decay after many years have passed. However, stone lasts a long time. Thus, many stone artifacts survive. This presents the false idea that man was too primitive to use any other mediums with which to write.

True archeological science has proven that early man was highly advanced.

Ancient man had vast amounts of knowledge about our world. Some ancient technologies may have surpassed our own. They were excellent astronomers. Medical practices in some cultures included brain surgery. They were capable in architecture, mathematics, agronomy, and animal husbandry. Creative and documentary writing has been shown to have been used very early in history. There is very good evidence to show that a worldwide trade economy existed at the time of the Phoenicians and perhaps even before. This included the New World. We have to readjust our thinking about ancient man's level of economic and scientific development (Lewis 86).

Vincent H. Gaddis, in his book American Indian Myths and Mysteries, presented many evidences for advanced prehistory science and technology. Many other authors have, also. However, these, evidences are ignored or hidden from the public, often intentionally.

Gaddis shows that there was a coexistence of cultures approximately 15,000 to 20,000 years ago. At the time when Magdalenian cave men in Europe wore hides and hunted with spears, the rock drawings of Lussac-leChateau (Departmenta of Vienne, France) reveal a cultured people who wore hats, trousers, petticoats, boots, and jackets with lapels and collars very similar to ours of today. This was discovered by Leon Pericarad and Stephane Lwoff, two French archeologists, in strata containing caveman relics in 1937. It must be noted that this discovery upset the orthodoxy of the day so much that this discovery is kept under lock and key at the Musee de l'Homme in Paris (11). Even today, primitive cultures exist in South America and Australia while 747s fly overhead.

The Incan Empire has more than 7,000 miles of roads, suspension bridges, fortresses and guardhouses. These buildings are stupendous and magnificent. Some of these structures were built with huge stones weighing up to 200 tons that fit together so well that a knife blade could not be forced between them (Gaddis 12).

There are ancient maps which have survived the years that are as accurate as modern ones. The famous map copied from an ancient map in 1513 by Turkish Admiral Piri Reis shows parts of the world with amazing accuracy. It has been revealed that newly charted mountains recently "discovered" by the U.S. Army were already recorded on this map. Another very detailed Antarctic map published in 1531 showed the coastlines and mountain ranges which today are buried under ice (Norman 121). These mountain ranges were just recently "discovered," also. The Philippe Buache Map of 1737 shows a waterway across Antarctica dividing it into two huge islands. This division was not known until the International Geophysical Year of 1958 "discovered" the split along a line of transantarctic mountains through the use of modern ice-sounding devices. There are many other ancient maps as well. It must be noted that these maps were copied from much older maps, which were copied from earlier ones. The implications are that these maps were the result of a world-wide aerial survey (Gaddis 21,22). Proof of other pre-history technologies exist, also.

Rock crystal lenses with magnifying powers have been discovered in Crete and Asia and Asia Minor. The most interesting one was discovered in Nineveh. Only the cast mirrors for the Mount Palomar Observatory are larger with the glass weighing 8.8 tons (Gaddis 230).

According to Kolosimo, the Babylonians could describe the crescent of Venus and its phases. This knowledge could not have been observed without the use of telescopes (207).

The ancient Chinese made chain mail armor that was 85 percent aluminum (Gaddis 23).

Four-thousand-year-old copper and bronze vessels and other art objects taken from Egyptian tombs have been found plated with antimony, a silverlike metal. This is evidence of electroplating of metal, which requires the knowledge of electricity (Gaddis 23).

An ancient hindu manuscript, the Agastya Samhita, preserved in the Princes' Library at Ujjain, contains detailed instructions for the construction of an electric dry-cell battery (Kolosimo 306).

Not far from Bagdad in Ctesiphon, home of the Sassanides in A.D. 226-630, electric batteries were made. They were recently discovered and still work (Kolosimo 159)!

Apparently the Chinese had some type of X-ray device in 259 B.C. (Kolosimo 303). Razor blades 4,500 years old were discovered in Egyptian tombs (Kolosimo 305).

In 1900 a party of sponge-divers discovered an ancient Greek vessel. Among the beautiful marble and bronze statues they found a mysterious object that was covered with corrosion. Dr. Derek Price of the Institute of Advanced Studies at Princeton discovered that it was a "working model of the solar system, including the earth, sun, moon and planets--a precise, accurate astronomical computer with gears, wheels and dials that moved the celestial bodies through their orbits in correct relationship." "Finding this device is like finding a jet plane in the tomb of King Tut," Dr. Price said (qtd in 25).

And what about flying machines of the terrestrial type? Did they exist? There seems to be much evidence concerning this question. Models of airplanes 3000 years old have been unearthed in South America. There is no doubt as to what they are.

However, since the story of the Tower of Babel is my thesis, could flight have been achieved in ancient Babylon? Apparently so. The wise men of Babylon compiled their laws into a document known as the Halkartha. One passage reads:

The privilege of operating a flying machine is great. The knowledge of flight is among the most ancient of our inheritances, a gift from Those From On High. We received it from them as a means of saving many lives (qtd in Norman 126).

The Sifala is an ancient collection of Chaldean writing believed to be at least seven thousand years old. Y. N. Iban A'haraon, an expert on ancient civilizations translated this text. The text contained instructions for building a flying machine (Norman 126).

What about the Tower of Babel?

Even these ancient , primitive people would have understood the folly of attempting to construct a tower into the heavens. We believe the "tower" was actually an effort to duplicate a space ship of some type; perhaps similar to the rockets we use to send our own astronauts to the moon. The "space tower" was destroyed by the UFO visitors--angels, if you like--to prevent ancient man from opening the heavens (Norman 33).

Peter Kolosimo devoted many years studying the possibilities of pre-history space ships. He has uncovered much evidence to support his claims. In his book Not of This World, Kolosimo wrote the following:

James Churchward, the enigmatic English scholar...tells us about a manuscript dealing with arial navies around 15 to 20 thousand years ago. "Their fuel" he says in a work written decades before people spoke about artificial satellites and space ships, "is drawn from the air in a very simple cheap way. The motor is something like a modern turbine...The ship in which it is built could revolve as long as it liked around Earth...

The Mysor International Academy of Sanskrit Studies says:

"The manuscripts we present in translation from Sanskrit describe various types of automatic ships adapted for travel on land, sea or in air and from planet to planet" (36,37).

Kolosimo presents hundreds of pages of examples such as these in his research. In Spaceships in Prehistory, he presents convincing arguments that the ancient obelisks of the past are simply faded memories of missiles. He presents another interesting scenario concerning early architecture. The early Romanesque and Gothic architecture seems to resurrect the memories of pre-history missiles.

What can we say, then, of another construction considerably nearer to us in time. We have shown the photo of it to various friends and asked them pointblank what it represents.

"A missile," was the unhesitating reply. Nonetheless, it is a photo of the minaret of the New Mosque at Istanbul which gives the idea of a spaceship on its launching pad (23)!

The towers added to the churches in the Romanesque period were simply towers to "reach unto heaven." Later as the occult connection is explained, this will make more sense.

RETURN TO MARS was the title of an article recorded in the September 24, 1992 issue of Florida Today.

Before the Mars Observer was encapsulated last month for its voyage to Earth's cold, dead sister planet, the project manager made a revealing appraisal of the mission's most unconventional political obligation - to rephotograph landforms evoking images of a mythic lost civilization (1).

In 1976, the Viking orbiter photographed odd-shaped landforms on the face of Mars. According to Dr. Emil Gaverluk, the Tower of Babel was a space launcher, the top first stage of a rocket to reach unto heaven, the planets. According to Gaverluk, the antediluvians reached Mars on their first step to conquer the Solar System, then the Milky Way Galaxy, and finally the whole Universe. They were forced to leave their creations on Mars over 5,000 years ago to face the judgement of the flood along with the Rephaim. Concerning these creations on Mars and the Cheops Pyramid in Egypt, Dr. Guverluk wrote the following:

Viking Orbiter, at 1,162 miles above the surface of Mars has photographed a huge mile-wide face carved out of a mountain staring into space; agricultural terraces; water courses; Inca City ruins along with a city around one of the pyramids; pyramids that look about the same width as the face whose height may be half a mile. We have nothing on earth that matches the size of these monstrous buildings. Along with this scientists have discovered a stupendous laser beam 40 miles above Mars surface that has the equivalent power of 1,000 nuclear reactors. National Geographic, March 1984 issue, starts the article on LASERS with this revelation. The antediluvians brought a smaller laser with them with which they carved out not only the face, but also the pyramids and would construct cities under ground. Their larger pyramids would tap into the electric-magnetic field of Mars to produce the extremely powerful laser beam that would be used to turn ice in space into water and hydrogen-oxygen for a new atmosphere.

If the Cheops Pyramid in Egypt, constructed over 5,000 years ago, says Walter Dimmock, Scientist at TRW in California, was built on a thin layer of gold, silver or copper that covered the whole base of 13 acres; with the dielectric stone sides; a metallic or crystal feedhorn at the top: then the whole thing was a GIANT CAPACITOR to tap into the electromagnetic field of the earth. It would also act as a spectacular giant radioscope more powerful than anything we have on earth today. Nicola Tesla at the turn of the century was working on harnessing the earth's natural electric power out of the magnetic field. Obviously in the 20th century we are still far behind the scientific advancements of the antediluvians (272-273).

One other thing about the Great Pyramid should be noted. According to J. R. Church's Prophecy in the News news letter, when the inner passageways of the Great Pyramid were discovered in 825 A.D., the walls of the Queen's chamber were encrusted with a half-inch layer of salt. Other pockets of salt have been discovered throughout the interior structure. This is evidence that the Pyramid must have been before Noah's flood! It is the only man-made structure known to have survived the flood (2).

The Sons of God, Religion, and the New World Order

Ancient Babylonian religions, occultism, UFOs, The New Age Movement, and the New World Order, strangely enough, have strong ties; and are part of a grand plan to deceive mankind one more time. Though my story about the Tower of Babylon is meant to be entertaining, the reality behind it is not.

The subject of UFOs is not new. Recorded stories of "flying shields," "circles of fire" or "cloudships" have been noted by Egyptian, Greek and Roman historians.

UFOlogists try to convince us that all past civilizations are the result of saucer visitations upon this earth. The pyramids, the precise alignment of Greek temples with each other (forming a perfect occultic Maltese cross that was detected by NASA satellites), highly advanced ancient South American architecture, and etc., were built under the supervision of intelligent beings from outer space, according to UFOlogist theories. Are these beings really from other planets? Or do they represent something more sinister and deceptive than earthlings can imagine? In UFOs: Operation Trojan Horse, John Keel wrote the following:

The UFOs do not seem to exist as tangible, manufactured objects. They do not conform to the accepted natural laws of our environment...The UFO manifestations seem to be, by and large, merely minor variations of the age-old demonological phenomenon (qtd. in North,291).

There is nothing new under the sun. Today, the UFOs are back. They are the same today as they were in the days of Noah and afterward as recorded in the book of Genesis. They are the Sons of God. They are Satanic entities posing as angels and ministers of light in order to deceive the world in these last days. In an attempt to destroy the true messages of the Bible they have come as visitors from outer space (Segraves 168).

They come with familiar occult themes. One of these themes is the evolution of man. They promise man that he is capable of achieving a leap of being and evolving into a much more powerful being in the future (North 292). They come with the same great lie that Satan told Eve, that "man is god." They come with the same belief that is "coincidentally" the same as the New Age movement's belief system. "The New Age movement believes that they will soon create a mystical, pseudo-political shift to an entirely new kind of life on earth," (Stearman 4).

The Great Lie. It is the foundation stone of Hinduism, Buddhism, Sufism, Jainism, Sikhism, Taoism, the Kabbala, the Greek Hermetic and Eleusinian Gnostic beliefs, Neoplatonism, all the occult creeds from Theosophy and the Masonic orders to the Rosicrucians, as well as too many cults to mention. It is the central foundation stone of the New Age movement (Brooke 233).

There are obvious connections between UFOs, the ancient Babylonian mysteries, and the occult. In his book COMMUNION, Whitely Strieber claimed to have been abducted by aliens. The alien in charge of the abduction was described by Strieber as a woman, though not earthly. She had "huge, staring eyes of the old gods..." He felt she was old in the sense of antiquity. She reminded him of an ancient Babylonian deity called Ishtar

This is very enlightening. The UFO aliens are linked to Ishtar, the same demonic entity that the pagans worshiped as Astarte or Diana in the past.

Often, people who have been abducted in the UFOs have described a symbol that the aliens often wear on their uniforms. It is a serpent with wings (Norman 190).

This insignia...look(s) like a snake with wings. Although much speculation has been made concerning this particular insignia, let it be stated that the winged serpent or flying serpent has played a great role in the legends and traditions of Central and South America...The significance of this emblem and the many sightings of people and beings with the winged serpent on their chest and the use of the winged serpent in folklore certainly may be a key in learning their identity. Some people have even suggested that it may be significant of the story of Adam and Eve considering the role of the serpent (Seagraves 56).

This serpent is a symbol for Satan, and is Satan. Comparing Bible prophecies and the world conditions today, the timing of demonic appearances is not coincidental. These UFOs are of the angelic world. John Weldon, in UFOs: What on Earth is Happening?, discussed the parallel world in conjunction with UFOs.

The parallel world...is a very full world, occupied by a variety of beings and entities, rather like the world we see. The Bible characterizes the spiritual world as experiencing ongoing warfare on the angelic level--the very sons of God are in contention. We see it clearly in the painful experiences of Job, and we will see it objectively revealed in the Tribulation to come.

The Book of Revelation presents quite a different world from that which we are accustomed to: in the end times of Revelation, the spiritual beings of good and evil will make themselves manifest on the Earth, and there will be no further doubt as to what sort of conflict has been going on in their Province (qtd in Tanner 20).

The UFO phenomenon is part of an on going plan to change our perception as a race. Since the re-birth of Israel in 1948, there has been an increased amount of sightings of flying saucers worldwide. Face to face encounters have become more common, and most people no longer ridicule the thought of UFOs as being real. Many now believe that these entities may be our only hope for survival on this planet. Many will welcome them. Modern man is now willing to spend 60 billion dollars to build giant radiosopes in order to contact these "space beings." Modern man is eager to get their information, space experience, their scientific knowhow and particularly their "power" (Gaverluk 271).

Consequently, mankind is being prepared for a great deception. However, this should not come as any surprise, as Satan, the Serpent, has been deceiving man since Adam and Eve. This deception begins with religion.

The Devil uses camouflages to keep his worship hidden. The Sun and Nimrod were only a front used by Lucifer to get multitudes to bow before him. However, the first camouflage he used to deceive Adam and Eve was the serpent. The very thing Satan used to deceive Adam and Eve became eventually one of the most sacred symbols of Sun worship (Anderson 37).

Today we have a great universal church with its millions of members observing traditions originated by Lucifer through Nimrod, Semiramis, and her lover/son Tammuz. These traditions are old pagan practices that have been "Christianized." On December 25, for example, Christians celebrate the birth of Christ instead of Tammuz. Christ was not born on December 25. Christians celebrate Easter with its sunrise services and colored eggs in memory of Christ's resurrection. However, it really is the observation of the Ishtar's Festival honoring a risen Tammuz. (Ishtar is pronounced as Easter). This festival in the ancient past included a drunken orgy which included the sacrifices of humans to the Sun-god and moon-gods. These sacrifices were hung on crosses. And of course the religion of the mother and child, warmly embraced today, originated in Babylon (Smith 6-7). The cross did not appear in the "Christian" religion until the Catholic Church introduced it.

It has been proven that the worship of Nimrod and the Mysteries of Babylon were transplanted into Egypt and Greece and were eventually absorbed into Rome where the Catholic Church was born. What college text books refer to as Christianity is usually Catholicism; and Catholicism is simply Christianized paganism, Babylonianism. Concerning the Catholic Church, in the famous The Two Babylons or The Papal Worship, subtitled Proved to be THE WORSHIP OF NIMROD AND HIS WIFE, the late Rev. Alexander Hislop wrote, Let every Christian henceforth and for ever treat it as an outcast from the pale of Christianity. Instead of speaking of it as a Christian Church, let it be recognised and regarded as the Mystery of Iniquity, yea, as the very Synagogue of Satan (282).

The Two Babylons shows without any doubt that all of the practices of the Roman cult have been brought over from Babylonian paganism. Worship (or veneration) of the Virgin Mary is really the worship of Venus, Astarte, and it comes from Babylon. The center of this system is Satanic.

Likenesses of Semiramis and her son have appeared on coins, statues, murals, and in all manner of temple icons. She is the great goddess--from Diana of the Wiccans and neo-pagans of today, as well as of the ancient world (one thinks of the great temple of Diana in Ephesus), to the great goddess of India, Shakti. Her name has changed many times through history, as has that of her avatar son. She was heavenly Venus or Cybele, Jove's wife, mother of Janus, the god with the all-seeing-eye. She was also Minerva, Europa, Ceres, and Ashtoreth. In India she appears in many forms (Brook 243).

According to the Book of Revelation, a world church of Babylonian influence (the Catholic Church) will be involved in the conspiracy of forcing the world to submit to a world government. A world leader, like Nimrod, will arise. And the world will worship him. And like Nimrod, he will be against God. Interestingly, the number 666 is somehow involved with this world government and its international banking system (Genesis 13). As was already noted, the serpent is the symbol of the Sun-god. It is interesting to note that the Greek names used for the Sun-gods in the past add up to 666 (Anderson 61).

There are two organizations today whose goals have been and are a development of a one world government under the auspices of the United Nations. By deceiving the American people, they have successfully been destroying the economic, moral, and educational fabric of this nation through the control of the news media, education, and the Federal Reserve. These organizations are the Trilateral Commission and the Council on Foreign Relations. These organizations are really sister organizations whose roots can be traced back to the Illuminati, a Luciferic organization formed in 1776 by an Adam Wieshapt. These organizations expose themselves not only by their actions and deceptions, but through their logos as well.

The logos of both of these organizations speak louder than words. The Trilateral logo is an interlocking system of three arrows, each designed to suggest the number "6." Thus: 6-6-6. The shape and projectory of these arrows causes a triangle of three parts to be formed. In occult paganism, this represents the unholy trinity of deities worshipped in the ancient Mystery Religions. The arrows point to "the One," symbolically meaning that all things are eventually to come under the domination and control of the Secret Brotherhood and, eventually, its Antichrist leader. Meanwhile, the Council on Foreign Relations has used a logo of a rider on a white horse. To understand the horrendous meaning of the curious logo, we need only turn to Revelation 6 of our Bibles. There, we discover that the first of the dreadful and bloody Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse is the rider on the white horse (Marrs 1).

It should be noted that both the Trilateral Commission and the CFR are controlled by the same, small inner circle of wealthy elitists; the same people who control the international banks and our Federal Reserve.

Just for interest, Ross Perot is a member of the CFR; Clinton is a member of both the Trilateralists and the CFR; Stockdale is a member of the CFR; Gore is a member of the Trilateralists and CFR; and of course George Bush, member of the occultic organization known as the Skull and Bones Society, "was" the chairman of the CFR and the Trilateralists.

Satan likes to use symbols, perhaps to communicate with his followers. They are found everywhere. The eye is one example. It is one of the oldest and most important symbols of Masonry (which can be traced back to Egyptian and Babylonian Mysteries). The eye represents the Osiris (Osiris was another name for Nimrod). This symbol dominates the top of most Masonic documents, and now dominates the back of the Great Seal of the United States dollar bill (Still 24). The eye is over the pyramid, another occultic symbol. (The eye is also CBS's logo, as the rising sun is ABC's, and the peacock is NBC's, all ancient occultic symbols). The eagle clutching the 13 arrows, and thirteen olives is really a phoenix, another occultic symbol. Of course, thirteen represents confusion and is a highly respected number among Satanists and witches. The thirteen stars over the phoenix's head are shaped as pentagrams, which form a larger pentagram, a very occultic symbol. Is this all coincidental? At the bottom of the pyramid appears a number in Roman numerals. When they are added together the sum is 666. The translation of the Latin inscription circling the pyramid is "The Birth of a New World Order!" This is not accidental. We have been warned! This is an extremely brief paper considering the information available. There are literally thousands upon thousands of pages of documentation concerning the New World Order, UFOs, and the New Age movement, and their influence on this world. The Bible has warned us about these things coming upon us. It has told us that these occultic manifestations are not new; rather they are expected to play the important part in these last days.

The American people are being deceived; and the world is being set up for the greatest deception since the Tower of Babel.

Today, with the advent of the Space Program, the New World Order, and the rise of occultism, nothing is new under the Sun!
